

I am very concerned to learn that Pappas Telecasting will be donating $325,000 in air time to support Republican Party candidates. This is an abuse of the public interest. Pappas is using a public platform to promote its own political interests.

Many of us would love to see air time donated to political candidates--but to those of all political parties. Pappas is violating the public interest and the gift that we have made it of allowing it to use the air waves.

The FCC should aggressively investigate this issue and halt this partisan giveaway--unless Pappas agrees to give comparable, free air time to all political candidates.
